

Bowdoin Climate Committees

With Bowdoin's Climate Implementation Plan complete, Bowdoin's Climate Commitment Advisory Committee has been replaced by the Climate Plan Implementation Committee. It is responsible for identifying, funding, and tracking greenhouse gas-reducing initiatives, reporting annually on the College's greenhouse gas emissions and updating the Carbon Neutrality Implementation Plan every two years. The Committee is comprised of faculty, staff and students and is charged with producing a set of specific proposals that help align the work and lives of Bowdoin faculty, staff, and students with the goals of the Climate Action Plan and Environmental Mission Statement. This committee actively engages with the entire Bowdoin community and considers many aspects of campus life and their relation to Bowdoin's climate commitment, including the curriculum, student activities, residential life, athletics, dining, facilities, information technology and transportation.
