Earth, Ocean, and Society

Food, Environment, and Development

What are the challenges that come with the global governance of food and agriculture? Is there a trade-off between feeding the world and saving the planet? What are questions that surround agricultural biotechnology and natural resources?

Neurobiology of the Synapse

The synapse is the fundamental signaling unit of the brain. Following introductory lectures on cell biology, physiology, plasticity, and signal integration of interneuronal communication, students will present papers and lead peer discussions.

ACT  33

* Testing data for those who submitted with an application.

For more information about our test-optional policy, visit bowdoin.edu/admissions/apply/testing-policy.
Now, take a breath.

College is expensive. For everyone. That’s why we’re committed to meeting the full financial need of every student we admit, without using loans in our aid packages. Admission is need-blind, so your opportunity to be admitted to Bowdoin will never depend on your ability to pay for it.

WHAT MAKES STUDENT AID DIFFERENT AT BOWDOIN?
We work with your family starting now and continuing through your entire Bowdoin career. We reevaluate your aid package every year, so if your family income or circumstances change, we continue to meet your full need.

We calculate your total student aid using the total cost of attending Bowdoin—that means your tuition, fees, and room and board, but it also includes estimates for books and personal expenses, among other things. For 2019–2020, that amount is $73,800. Adding these additional items helps families avoid costly surprises.

We want to admit students who are the right fit for Bowdoin, who will be challenged by this beautiful place and do good in the world. Because of this commitment, we will spend over $45 million in 2019–2020 making sure that we can provide aid for each student who qualifies. We think that makes Bowdoin better for everyone.
Who will you be if you take every opportunity?
JOIN A VIRTUAL INFORMATION SESSION
Hosted on Zoom by a Bowdoin admissions or student aid counselor, these 10-15 minute presentations are followed by a live question-and-answer session.

- Admissions: We’ll discuss topics including our location, student body, academic opportunities, campus culture, and need-blind and test-optional admissions process.
- Student Aid: We’ll cover general student financial aid policies, how to apply, and what to expect.

LIVE CHAT
Do you have questions you’d like to ask an admissions counselor? Talk to us on live chat! We’re available at specific times throughout the week.

VIRTUAL TOURS
So, it’s not the same as actually being here—but it’s a start! Explore our three virtual tours: a campus overview, an arts showcase, and a look inside our athletics facilities.

INTERVIEWS
Online interviews—via Zoom—are with an admissions staff member or senior student interviewer. The interviewer will guide the course of this give-and-take conversation, and there will be plenty of time for you to ask questions.

Once Bowdoin is open to campus visitors again, these opportunities will be available both in-person and online.
