Please see below new entry rules for the US as from Monday 3rd November, all travelers to the US will need to complete this form at check in.

We would like to share an important update for those who have international travel scheduled to the United States, including passengers who will only be connecting through the United States.

According to a new Order issued by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), effective November 3, 2026, at 11:59 p.m. EST, all passengers boarding international flights to the United States will be required to provide an attestation confirming that they have not been present in the Democratic Republic of the Congo (DRC) during the 21 days prior to boarding.

This requirement applies to all passengers, including U.S. citizens, U.S. nationals, and lawful permanent residents (Green Card holders). It also applies to passengers who are only transiting or connecting through the United States.

For purposes of this requirement, having been present in the DRC also includes transiting or connecting through an airport located in the country, even if the passenger did not leave the airport or disembark from the aircraft.

The attestation must be collected by the airline at or before the time of boarding and may be provided in paper or electronic format, according to the procedure adopted by the airline. Passengers who fail to complete and present the attestation will not be permitted to board, except in cases where an exemption has been issued by the U.S. Government.

Important: Passengers who have been present in the DRC during the applicable period will not be permitted to board a flight to the United States during Days 0 through 21 after leaving the country. According to the CDC guidance, Day 0 is the day the passenger leaves the DRC, and travel to the United States may resume beginning on Day 22, provided that all other travel requirements are met.

For travelers under 18 years of age, the attestation must be signed on their behalf by a parent, legal guardian, or another authorized person. Each passenger must have their own attestation.

Accordingly, we recommend that anyone with travel scheduled to the United States on or after November 3, 2026, pay close attention to this new requirement and to any additional instructions provided by their respective airline prior to boarding.
