

Dear,

RIAA has reported to us that you are allegedly in violation of copyright law for the following:

(INFORMATION FROM IT )

Under the Digital Millennium Copyright Act (DMCA), it is illegal to download copyrighted materials, including books, music, or film. As an Internet service provider, Bowdoin College complies with the DMCA.

The Recording Industry Association of America (RIAA) has initiated lawsuits against many individuals, including college and university students. The risks to you and the College are real. With this in mind, please stop downloading and delete all illegally acquired copyrighted files within 72 hours. (If you have difficulty removing this material, you may contact the REACH HelpDesk at x5050.) As soon as you have deleted the files, notify us immediately by responding to this message. If this illegal activity persists, you will be subject to disciplinary action that may include the loss of Bowdoin Internet access from your personal computer.

Of course, legal copying of material, such as iTunes or Napster, is permitted.

If you want to learn more about the Bowdoin Computer Use Policy, you may do so at <http://www.bowdoin.edu/it/contact/dmca-policy.shtml>

To learn more about the Digital Millennium Copyright Act and the actions that may be taken against those in violation of the law, refer to <http://lcweb.loc.gov/copyright/legislation/dmca.pdf>

Thank you for your immediate attention to this matter.

Sincerely,

Office of the Dean of Student Affairs
