Office Hours: Mon 1-2; Wed 1-3

Course Description: From the 15th century through the early 19th, global economic forces integrated the lands, ecosystems, and communities of North America into an increasingly tightly-knit network of commerce, migration, and ideas. Topics covered while exploring these early global networks will include: the spread of peoples, crops, and diseases; the role of colonial conquest in creating modern capital and commodity markets; the importance of addictive substances (like sugar and tobacco) in the development of the trans-Atlantic slave trade; and how a drought in Bangladesh sparked the American Revolution. This course is part of the following field(s) of study: U.S, Atlantic Worlds. It fulfills the pre-modern requirement for history majors.
Assignments:

Very Short Assignments (VSAs) – For each class period you will be expected to post a brief summary (≈150 words) to Blackboard/Canvas identifying the thesis and main argument of that day’s reading(s). You will also be expected to post at least one discussion question. Both will be due by 10:00am on the day of class. Each VSA will be worth 0.5 points in your final course grade. Late VSAs will be eligible for a maximum of half credit (0.25 pts). (Exceptions: WEEK 1, Feb 14, Feb 21, WEEK 7, and WEEK 14.)

Three Analysis Essays – Two pages responding to a prompt posted on Canvas a week prior to the due date. Be sure that your essay addresses American history within the context of global (or, at least, trans-Atlantic) influences. You should draw on at least one primary source as well as material from lecture and our secondary source readings when framing your answer.

Columbian Exchange Recipe Essay – 4-5 pages of text + cover page. Essay should analyze your chosen dish/meal within the historical context of the Columbian Exchange and global trade networks.

Final Essays – The Final will consist of two 4-5-page essays. For each essay, you will be given several prompts from which to choose. The first essay should draw on material addressed in the last four weeks of class. The second should address the themes covered over the extent of the course.

All essays should be double-spaced with 12 in. Times New Roman font and 1 in. margins

WARNINGS AND DISCLAIMERS

SYLLABUS: This syllabus is a living document and will likely evolve over the course of the semester. You can always find the most up-to-date assignments on Canvas under the “Modules” tab.

CANVAS: Canvas will be an integral part of this course. The syllabus, descriptions of assignments, useful guides, and any changes hereafter will be posted there. You are required to check Canvas regularly and will be responsible for all material on the course site.

FILMS: Film screenings are intended for class purposes only and, in accordance with copyright law, are not open to the public.

CITATION OF SOURCES: When referring to sources (primary and secondary) in your papers, you should provide a complete citation including author, title, publisher, place and date of publication, and page numbers. Citations should follow the “Chicago-style” format commonly used by historians. I ask that you use footnotes with all of your paper assignments. The library website has citation information under “Get Started,” and I have included several links on Blackboard. Please see me if you have any questions.

ACADEMIC HONESTY: All students must read and abide by the Academic Honor and Social Code (http://www.bowdoin.edu/studentaffairs/student-handbook/college-policies/index.shtml). Suspected cases of plagiarism will result in a conference with me, and, if unresolved at that point, will be referred to the Judicial Board. If you are unsure what constitutes plagiarism, please consult a reference librarian or ask me.
